

Inspiring hope, joy, courage and purpose in the global workforce

ROHEI started quite by chance. It began officially on 1st April 2007, some eight years ago. After continued persuasion and needling from her friends and some wise counsel from respected advisors, Rachel decided to start ROHEI Corporation, a learning and development organization. What began as a great way for friends to work and grow old together has now become a mission to build a committed team that would inspire hope, joy, courage and purpose in the global workforce.

As our work became more established, we also grew clearer about our niche; the area we would flourish in, namely, we exist to create inspired learning experiences.

We wanted to grow a team to take on this challenge, a team that would think generations and who would be committed to building for the long haul. We searched for a meaningful way to articulate our intent and thus the ROHEI Perspectives were created to guide our path forward.

Some of these perspectives included:

- Developing people through the workplace
- Communicating truth
- Being humble and grateful
- Honoring organizational values and people as priority
- Being generous in sharing resources
- Integrating home and work as key sources of fulfilment
- Maximizing what we give versus what we take

Through walking out our mission and our perspectives as a way of life, we have attracted like-minded, skilled and passionate individuals. As a result, the ROHEI team presently has over 60 members, of whom 55 are full time consultants. Together, we are able to do what each of us single-handedly would be unable to achieve. The ROHEI team has reached over 35,000 learners in organizations representing the finance, healthcare, manufacturing, pharmaceutical, retail and hospitality, education, logistics, telecommunications and government sectors.

And we are having a great time.
